MFE Inspection Solutions marks 30 years of innovation and leadership in industrial inspection technology

Houston, Texas – Marking three decades of innovation and excellence, this month MFE celebrates its 30th anniversary as a leader in industrial inspections. Founded 30 years ago in a small office in Houston, Texas by William ‘Bill’ Duke and partner Dave Amos, today MFE is a global authority on advanced inspection solutions, with 14 offices in five countries, including the US, Canada, Egypt, the United Arab Emirates, and Mexico.

In 1994, MFE Enterprises opened its doors by selling tank floor scanners for industrial inspections. In 2009, MFE began offering a broad array of other inspection technology, building a new business on the strong foundation it had established with its clients. Today, MFE is considered one of the top inspection solution providers in the world, offering top-tier inspection equipment from trusted partners across a spectrum of inspection services and technologies, including tank scanners, crawler robots, drones, and more, as well as training and best-in-class support.

Dylan Duke, CEO and son of founder Bill Duke, reflects on the company's growth, “Over the past 30 years, MFE Inspection Solutions has supported over 9,000 companies in industries as diverse as oil and gas, power generation, pharmaceuticals and beyond. When my father started MFE, clients expressed the need for more support, better tools, and better education. Our journey from a small startup to a global leader is a testament to our team’s commitment to our clients and the fact that we always put them first.”

Over the years, under the guidance of the Duke family, MFE has maintained the integrity and principles instilled from its inception: A focus on relationships above all else, with an emphasis on supporting clients all the way through implementation to ensure their success. MFE is driven by a relentless passion to support its clients, seeing the sale of equipment as just the start of the relationship with a customer, not the end.

“We are excited to continue this journey, pushing the boundaries of what’s possible in the inspection industry while continuing to foster and grow long-term partnerships with our clients,” says Duke. “Here’s to another 30 years of success, innovation, and excellence.”

As MFE Inspection Solutions looks to the future, it remains committed to its mission of empowering clients with advanced technology and expertise. MFE Inspection Solutions thanks its clients, partners, and dedicated team for their support and trust over the past three decades. The company looks forward to many more years of providing industry-leading solutions and contributing to the success of projects worldwide.
